Child Protection Conferences

A Child Protection Conference is a meeting. At the meeting are your social workers, your teachers or your doctor, all people who are working with your family, and are very worried about you, and your brothers and sisters (if you have any).

At the meeting they help to make plans to keep you safe and out of harm.

NYAS can help you at child protection conferences.

We help you to have your say, and we are there just for you.

Whatever you tell us we will keep it private if you want us to unless you or someone else could be harmed.

Before the Child Protection Conference

NYAS will

• Arrange to see you
• Listen to what you say
• Come to the conference with you, if you want
• Help tell the people at the conference what you think
• If you don’t want to go, or don’t want to speak at the conference, we can tell them what you think.

Child Protection Conferences are important meetings, so make sure you think about what you want to say, or what you’d like us to say for you.
